

PACIFIC CROSSING

Recreation Center

Sport Court

Paths

AKS Landscape Architect Jim Hensley has over 35 years' experience in designing private and public parks.

AKS Engineering has designed several recent private parks, including one in Forest Grove for Renaissance Development's Pacific Crossing. Pacific Crossing has two acres of park, and additional open space, that includes two miles of paths. The park has a club house, swimming pool and small play area. Open spaces include thematic play structure, sport courts and picnic areas. Jim designed all site elements, and sited the recreation center building and designed the layout of the pool area.

Thematic Play Area

Working closely with the developer and the City of Forest Grove, Jim's work included schematic through final design, construction plans for grading, irrigation planting plans and services during construction.

